LIFE Potamo Fauna

Conservation of river fauna of Community interest in the Natura 2000 network sites of the Ter, Fluvià and Muga river basins

News

06/07/2015

The first reinforcement population of freshwater blenny (Salaria fluviatilis) has been taken in Fluvià during the month of June

In the framework of the LIFE Potamo Fauna and to consolidate the recovery of the Naiad Unio Elongatulus in the basins of the rivers Ter and Muga until 2017 is expected to carry out various …

06/07/2015

The technical coordinator of the project LIFE Potamo Fauna, Quim Pou, participates in Congress River Restoration Project Monitoring (LIFE Cipriber) in Valladolid

The Hydrographic Confederation of the Duero organized between 1 and 3 July the Congress on River Restoration Project Monitoring under the LIFE Cipriber actions for the protection and conservation of …

06/07/2015

Olot will be the focus of native crayfish in September

During the week from 21 to 25 September Olot will host the "Spanish Conference on conservation of native crayfish" (September 21 to 22) and the "International Symposium on conservation of native …

06/07/2015

Primary and Secondary students have experienced firsthand LIFE Potamo Fauna

This spring two speeches have been made in primary and secondary students to Girona and Celrà to explain the project under LIFE Potamo Fauna shares outreach and awareness. In total has reached 184 …

06/07/2015
The exhibition, almost ready
During next summer the project of preparing the exhibition will be ready. It's articulated around five central themes: the project in general and the LIFE financial instrument, the white-footed …

06/07/2015
ARTICLE / "The White-clawed Crayfish, aim of LIFE Potamo Fauna"
White-clawed Crayfish (Austropotamobius pallipes) are freshwater crustaceans that live in clear and oxygenated rivers. A few years ago they were widely distributed in the watersheds of the rivers of …